

ABSTRACT OF THE DESCLOSURE

A facsimile server referring to an electronic mail server for the data size of electronic mail which has reached the electronic mail server, detecting a receivable data size, and comparing the incoming electronic mail with the receivable data size. When the data size of the incoming electronic mail exceeds the receivable size, the facsimile server receives the incoming electronic mail from the electronic mail server by the packet and sends the electronic mail by the packet to a designated address.